Investment environment

- Global equities rallied further in March, with the MSCI All Country World Index advancing 3.3% in sterling terms and 3.1% in US dollar terms.
- UK equities outperformed the other major developed indices in local currency terms. The FTSE All-Share Index returned 4.8%, compared with a 3.2% return from the S&P 500 Index and a 4.3% rise in Japan's TOPIX Index. The MSCI Europe ex UK Index returned 3.7%. The MSCI Emerging Markets Index rose 2.5% in US dollar terms, driven mostly by gains in Taiwan and South Korea.
- All of the global benchmark's sectors ended higher and there was a visible rotation into cyclical sectors. Energy, materials and utilities topped the rankings, while consumer discretionary, consumer staples and healthcare were among the laggards. Against this backdrop, value-style shares comfortably outperformed growth-style shares.
- Fixed income rallied after a subdued start to 2024. US Treasury yields finished around 5 basis points (bps) lower while there were double-digit falls in UK gilt and German bund yields. This helped corporate bond indices end higher, aided further by a general tightening in credit spreads. The exception was European high yield bonds, which posted smaller gains as credit spreads widened slightly.

- Commodity prices were boosted by optimism regarding the US and global economy, as well as hopes for interest rate cuts in the near future. Brent crude oil prices rose almost 5% and copper prices rose 4% amid further concerns over tight supply. Meanwhile, gold posted a 9% gain as geopolitical tensions continued to increase.

Portfolio review

In another strong month for financial assets, the largest positive contributions were driven mainly by the fund's equity portfolio followed by fixed income and alternative assets. There were smaller positive contributions delivered across cash and foreign exchange positions.

Within the fund's equity allocations, US and UK equities contributed most positively, followed by Europe ex-UK and then Asia ex-Japan. At the individual position level, the Dodge & Cox US Stock Fund and the BlackRock European Dynamic Fund added most value. The largest detractor was the First Sentier Japan Equity Fund.

Within the fund's fixed income holdings, the government bond allocation delivered the best gains as core yields fell (prices rose). Investment grade credit, high yield bonds and emerging market debt also generated a notable positive impact.

Elsewhere, alternatives delivered a positive return overall, driven mainly by the commodities position in physical gold. Real assets and private equity were positive, and the macro-focussed strategies were flat overall.

We increased the allocation to UK and European equities and reduced the position in Japan equities. We also increased the fund's alternatives position by topping up holdings in real assets. In fixed income there was a small allocation shift away from US Treasury duration into UK gilts.

Manager outlook

An improving cyclical outlook and the prospect of more supportive monetary policy in the coming months have maintained the recent compression in credit spreads and rally in equity markets. Various indicators suggest that growth is improving, particularly in the manufacturing sector, as falling inflation has boosted real consumer incomes. At the same time, despite solid growth and above-target inflation, major central banks continue to indicate that they expect to begin cutting interest rates in the coming months.

The economic 'soft landing' continues to look on track in our view. However, sovereign bond yields remain torn between the expectation of interest rate cuts in the near future and the potential that removing the brake on the economy with inflation yet to return to 2% risks a policy error later down the line. Meanwhile, credit and equities have been more focused on the support to risk assets from an improving growth outlook in the near term. Equity valuations have risen to elevated levels and we think that companies now need to show improved earnings to justify the recent rally. Sentiment and positioning indicators again looked stretched to us, but improving growth and interest rate cuts could be a positive mix for risk assets.

The Investment Association (IA) groups funds with similar geographic and/or investment remit into sectors. The Fund's ranking within the sector (as calculated by a number of data providers) forms the basis of the Fund's performance target and can be a useful performance comparison against other funds with similar aims.

Investment policy

The Fund invests in Collective Investment Schemes (other funds including those managed by Janus Henderson, Exchange Traded Funds and unregulated funds) to provide diversified global exposure to a range of assets including shares (equities) of companies, bonds issued by companies and governments, and to a lesser extent, alternative assets such as property, commodities, private equity and hedge funds. The Fund may also invest directly in other assets including developed market government bonds, investment trusts, cash and money market instruments. The Investment Manager may use derivatives (complex financial instruments) to reduce risk or to manage the Fund more efficiently. The Fund is actively managed with reference to the IA Flexible Investment sector average, which is based on a peer group of broadly similar funds, as this forms the basis of the Fund's performance target. The Investment Manager has complete discretion to choose investments for the Fund and is not constrained by a benchmark.

Investment strategy

The Investment Manager believes that asset allocation opportunities are generated by inefficient markets over short term periods and the Fund's asset mix is actively adjusted to reflect this and to reduce overall risk. The Fund will allocate across regional equities, the entire bond universe, alternative asset classes such as property and commodities and cash in weights cognisant of the benchmark index. Asset allocation views can be formed on the grounds of fundamental research, asset class valuations, market sentiment, investor positioning, news flow, technical factors and diversification. Investments are implemented primarily through actively managed funds, while passive (index tracking) instruments (primarily ETFs or derivatives) are used for short term tactical trades or for low cost implementation of pure macroeconomic views. The Fund may also hold up to 20% in developed market government bonds.

Fund specific risks

The Fund could lose money if a counterparty with which the Fund trades becomes unwilling or unable to meet its obligations, or as a result of failure or delay in operational processes or the failure of a third party provider. Shares/Units can lose value rapidly, and typically involve higher risks than bonds or money market instruments. The value of your investment may fall as a result. The Fund invests in other funds (including exchange-traded funds and investment trusts/companies). This may introduce more risky assets, derivative usage and other risks associated with the underlying funds, as well as contributing to a higher level of ongoing charges. The Fund may use derivatives with the aim of reducing risk or managing the portfolio more efficiently. However this introduces other risks, in particular, that a derivative counterparty may not meet its contractual obligations. If the Fund holds assets in currencies other than the base currency of the Fund, or you invest in a share/unit class of a different currency to the Fund (unless hedged, i.e. mitigated by taking an offsetting position in a related security), the value of your investment may be impacted by changes in exchange rates. Securities within the Fund could become hard to value or to sell at a desired time and price, especially in extreme market conditions when asset prices may be falling, increasing the risk of investment losses.
